City seeking public support to stem loss of funds; may post signs similar to Santee's

by Lindy Magner

Cities are mad, and they're not going to take it anymore - or rather, let it be taken from them without a fight.

At its Tuesday night meeting, the City Council discussed strategies for combating what City manager Jack Shelver terms "a raid" by the financially beleaguered state government on city coffers.

Governor Wilson's tentative 1993-94 budget calls for property taxes to be shifted from cities and special districts to fund education.

Shelver noted that according to a League of California Cities computation, this would mean a loss of $245,256 in property taxes for Lemon Grove.

This revenue loss comes on the heels of last year's loss of nearly $140,000 in sales and cigarette tax monies to its general fund, and a loss of $139,000 in redevelopment tax increment monies, according to Shelver.

He noted that the redirection of redevelopment monies to the state, thought to be a one-time revenue loss for cities, will occur again this budget year.

"We've lost $477,000 to the state. If citizens don't want money taken from their local government which provides them with services (fire protection, law enforcement, recreation, etc.), then they should let their state representatives know," said Shelver.

In discussing if the city would follow Santee's lead in enlisting public action in a big way - that city recently posted 12-foot signs informing residents that the state plans to take away property tax revenues from the city.

"Only you can stop this annual rip off!" the signs proclaim, listing the phone numbers of the governor and state representatives.

Santee also sent letters to all cities in the county, suggesting that they do as Santee and elicit citizen involvement.

"We have to do something to get to the legislature," said Mayor Brian Cochran. "We've cut back on employees and programs; the state has not cut back - there has to be some give in their discretionary budget so that they don't continue taking more money from cities and counties," he added.

Councilman Legerton suggested that Lemon Grove also post two huge signs at city entranceways.

"Whatever it takes to move the people, we should do; the legislature needs to hear from the community - that's who they're influenced by. I'm impressed with what Santee did - the signs identify a problem and encourage people to do something about it" he said. "We're down to bare bones now," he said, referring to the city's financial status.

"There are over 400 cities in the state, we need to band together to fight this," said Councilman Craig Lake.

Following discussion, council voted to direct staff to explore the possibility of installing large signs at the east and west sections of Broadway.

Just before Tuesday night's council meeting, Lemon Grove Fire Department Capt. Jonathan Torchia (left) demonstrated new equipment which firefighters will use to defibrillate cardiac patients. Recently, all 19 firefighters received EMT-D certification. Council to hold special meeting March 23 on Bob Baker Toyota

In other business Tuesday night, the council approved a special meeting for Tuesday, March 23, at 7 p.m. mainly for a public hearing on the subject of a planning permit recently granted to Bob Baker Toyota.

Central Avenue resident John Wood is appealing the Planning Commission's decision granting a permit for the development of the 6826 Federal Boulevard site on which Bob Baker Toyota plans a two-level car dealership.

The site was the previous location of Lee White Toyota, which abandoned the property after declaring bankruptcy over a year ago.

Wood's application for appeal centers on the commission's decision not to require the dealership to install storm drains along Federal Blvd. as Wood states was "previously required of the former owner/developer."

The second reason Wood lists for his appeal is the "change of language allowing delivery of vehicles from normal business hours - 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. - to anytime, 24 hours a day."

In his agenda notes, Shelver stated that the appeal must be heard soon to allow the dealership to continue with its contracts and property acquisition.

Bob Baker Enterprises reported in a recent city meeting that it hopes to begin construction in summer; completion is expected in about a year.

ADAPT forum focuses on legislation to curb under-age drinking

by Lindy Magner

Tuesday morning, the countywide Alcohol & Drug Abuse Prevention Task Force (ADAPT) sponsored a panel discussion of proposed state legislation which the non-profit organization drafted to require tagging of beer kegs by alcohol vendors in an effort to reduce under-age drinking.

Beer kegs are notoriously popular at teen-age parties, according to David Robbins of the state Alcohol Beverage Licensing Board (ABC), who sat on the 8-member panel of law enforcement officials and political representatives.

"Currently, we have no way of identifying what store the kegs came from. With the legislation, we will be able to trace kegs to the seller and to the purchaser," he said.

The proposed legislation, AB 8, would require alcohol retailers to tag each beer keg before it is sold, marking it with their ABC license number.

According, to panelist Eric Hereford, aide to Assemblyman Tom Connolly, the retailer would face misdemeanor charges if the keg was sold to a minor. Also, an adult who purchased any keg found at at teen-age keg party would also face misdemeanor charges.

Other panelists participating included Coronado Police Chief Jack Drown (sitting in for El Cajon Police Chief Jack Smith who had a family emergency), Dave Zimmerman of the Poway Sheriff's Department traffic division. and Grossmont Union High School District Superintendent Jo Ann Smith.

Also participating were Monte Vista High School PTSA president Beverly Horton, Patrick Keith of San Diego State University's Student-to-Student support group, and Jerry Long, owner of Poway's Big Stone Lodge.

While the audience of nearly 40 people were assembled in the El Cajon City Council Chambers for the panel discussion, the state Assembly Governmental Organizations Committee was deliberating the fate of AB 8.

By afternoon, the news was in - the committee voted to keep the bill alive - it will now be reviewed by the Ways and Means Committee, before beginning the journey through the state Assembly and Senate according to Hereford.

Introduced as legislation by Assemblyman Tom Connolly (D-77), shortly after he took office Dec. 7, the bill is the brainchild of ADAPT executive director Linda Oravec, who feels strongly that the county needs such "a tool" to limit under-age drinking.

"During the November election period, I wrote to everyone running for office in the Legislature, suggesting that they introduce this bill should they be elected," she said, noting that Connolly was one of the two hopefuls who responded positively to her query, and the only one elected.

Since his introduction of the bill, Connolly has successfully elicited the support of school boards and city councils within his district, many of which have adopted resolutions supporting the bill.

Though beer-keg legislation was unsuccessfully proposed to the state legislature several years ago, Oravec feels that this proposed bill has a much better chance of becoming law.

"The Houser bill, which was introduced several years ago, but failed in the Governmental Organization Committee, was perceived as anti-business and burdensome to retailers. I knew that to make our bill fly, the burden on the (beer-keg) industry had to be lifted," she said, explaining that the failed bill required the beer-keg industry to stamp its kegs.

"Our bill has the retailers putting on the tags which carry their ABC license number, making the kegs easily traceable, at a cost of about 7 cents per tag," she said. This is a pro-youth, not an anti-business, bill," she added.

Oravec also noted that AB 8 is endorsed by more than 50 organizations, school boards and city councils statewide, including the

Heartland to offer fair housing seminar at Community Center

Heartland Human Relations and Fair Housing Association and the San Diego County Housing and Community Development Department will sponsor a free, fair housing seminar for property owners, managers, and tenants from 7-9 p.m. on Tuesday, March 30, at the Lemon Grove Community Center, 3146 School Lane.

The Federal Fair Housing Amendments Act added the disabled and families with children to the existing protected classes of race, color, religion, national origin, and gender, in the sale, rental, lease, or negotiation of property. The California Fair Housing Act, which became effective Jan. 1, brings the state and federal fair housing laws into conformity.

Fair housing practices are the responsibility of rental property owners whether or not they manage their properties. Now that state and federal fair housing laws are uniform, the providers of housing need to operate within the framework of this legislation. Many timely topics will be offered in this seminar, including selection of tenants, quotas, equal enforcement of rules, reasonable accommodations for the disabled, and senior housing exemptions.

Additionally, mental and physical disability, the concept of family, and discrimination will be defined and discussed.

Heartland Human Relations and Fair Housing Association's updated fair housing handbook and various informative handouts will be available for distribution. All landlords and tenants are invited to attend this free, educational workshop. Ample time will be allotted for a question-and-answer period.

Interested persons may call 460-2744 for additional information.

B-Words Personal comments of Councilman Bob Burns

Highway 125

The long-awaited plan for the construction of Highway 125 is being formulated with some surprising questions still unresolved. For some reason there is a persistence to install an off-ramp at Troy St. and Palm Ave. at the Eastern edge of Lemon Grove. Since June of last year, when the personnel of the Council changed, the city fathers have been united in their opposition to the off-ramp. The Lemon Grove City Council wants there only to be an interchange at Highway 94, and one at Jamacha Road. This distance, less than two miles between, is certainly much less than the average separations in our state highway system. There have been proposals to place off ramps at either Ildica Street, or Troy in between the two planned ways of entering or leaving the freeway. We were told that some pencil sharpening and slide-rule work was needed in placing them so as to "not have them too close together." So, why have either of them at ali?

The Council's reasons for "Not Having" the off-ramp are:

#1) Safety. The ramp would bring much rapid traffic immediately past the Palm Avenue middle school which backs up to the Mt. Vernon elementary school. Also it is a stone's throw from Mt. Miguel High School, and the area is already a very dangerous situation for the children.

#2) The increase in traffic would seriously impact our city with a slashing through the center on Palm Ave. which becomes San Miguel at the Trolley tracks and carries on through to Federal Blvd., and the freeway heading West into San Diego. We just recently dropped the speed limit on that street to 25 mph to try to protect the school children on the west end of town.

#3) There will have to be a number of homes destroyed to make way for the cloverleaf swings to effect the entrance and egress from the freeway.

#4) The disruption of the neighborhood during construction will be severe if the off-ramps are installed versus just passing by that location.

#5) Last but surely not least is the cost. Why spend the money to condemn and secure the land, construct and maintain the structures, and pay for the traffic signal on the corner of Palm and Golden, as promised if the off-ramp is installed.

It seems ludicrous to spend the waning highway construction funds on something that is not needed, wanted, nor sensible. The City Council must sign an agreement with Caltrans to allow them to construct this facility in our jurisdiction, and I hope that we will remain adamant in our position not to do so.

As I see it, the only benefits that such a structure can provide is a saving of a few minutes of time for travelers, and a slight access improvement for the businesses on either side of the location. The present access would remain so there would be no cutting off, just a lack of improvement for the automotive movement in that location. As I see it, and I live in the middle of the city, is that I will have to travel to Jamacha Rd., if I wish to travel south on 125, or to Highway 94 if I wish to travel north. This is not a great inconvenience for me, and it is certainly better than having to put up with numbers 1 through 5 above.

As stated by Caltrans, this has never happened before that a city has "declined an off-ramp." I cannot believe that. If this is the truth, then it must say something for the power of the Agency. I sincerely hope that our council stands fast, and I am sure that it will. The "promise" of installing a traffic signal (approximately $100,000) if the off-ramp was installed was not tempting enough. In fact the council showed its solidarity by voting unanimously to install the signal ourselves for the safety of the children. I applaud that show of unity.

If you have any questions or suggestions for Dr. Burns, send them to P.O. Box BB, Lemon Grove, Ca. 91946

BOOKS FOR ALL AGES AND INTERESTS – FRIENDS' BOOK SALES ATTRACT MORE BUYERS

The Friends of the Library February book sale was a record-breaker in number of books donated and in cash receipts. Thanks to the generosity of those who donated books and the hard work of the Friends and friends-of-Friends, $457 went directly to the coffers, to be spent, as needed, for the children's reading program, some new fiction, and other library needs. Many book-buyers carefully selected their books, then waved away their change, contributing it to the Friends.

Again, the local children's shop - A Kid's Store and More! - donated a supply of hand-decorated bookmarks for distribution to book sale buyers. They are so appealing that everyone who saw them wanted one.

To the loyal and hard-working volunteers, a heartfelt Thanks! John Fergus appeared both morning and afternoon to help with the heavy task of moving books; so did George Cremer. Both of them arrived as helpers and left as new members of the Friends.

We had a father-and-sons team of helpers in Daniel, Gus, and Henry Warren. Rosemary and Dwight Putnam's daughter, Christine Hendricks, visiting her parents, was put to work. George McCarthy was a book-mover whose help eased end-of-the-day efforts.

Diane Fanning, a new member of the Friends, was working at her first book sale.

Friends of the Lemon Grove Library and veterans of countless book sales included Laura Barrett, Jack Moore, Dwight Putnam, Ron Day, Mary Vinson, Loy Holmquist, Rosemary Putnam, and Dorothy Geldreich.

Our thanks, too, to others who helped but whose names weren't noted in the midst of whirls of activity; we appreciate you all.

CHILDREN'S ART TO BE DISPLAYED – ART SHOW AND RECEPTION, APRIL 10

Art work contributed by elementary students in Lemon Grove schools will be displayed in the community room of the library in April. Ron Day, local artist and member of the Friends, is collecting and displaying the work, using the newly installed bulletin board.

Children, parents, teachers and the public are invited to an art show and reception on Saturday, April 10, 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., to view the displayed work and to congratulate the artists. Laura Barrett and Loy Holmquist will prepare the refreshment table where lemonade, the beverage of choice in Lemon Grove, will be served.

SEARCHING FOR SOMEONE? TRY PHONEFICHE

We all know about microfiche now, the listing of books and authors on film that is then reduced in size so that the listing for the entire county library system can be held in one hand. A patron looking for a specific book need only pop the film segment covering that part of the alphabet into a viewing machine. The machine will magnify and illuminate the listing while the viewing patron just turns a knob to keep bringing new names into view.

Something new to our library, although a hand-me-down from our sister library in La Mesa, is the phonefiche. This reference lists the contents of phone directories of large cities in the United States. The directories contained in the phonefiche are from 1990/91, so you won't find a listing for someone recently moved. However, if you've lost track of a friend or relative, or know the city but can't remember the address, this might solve the problem. Genealogy researchers are finding it helpful, too.

WELCOME TO NEW FRIENDS OF THE LEMON GROVE LIBRARY

Welcome to Norma Block, George Cremer, John and Judith Fergus, Ginny Gill, Ernest and Frania John, Kiwanis of Lemon Grove, James and Barbara Krattli, Ben and Tina Rainer and Kellee, Dr. Amorita Treganza, and Diane Fanning.

James and Barbara Krattli have lived in the area since 1956. Barbara managed Grove Office Supply in Lemon Grove; Jim taught at El Cajon Valley High School for 16 years, and was a naval officer prior to that. Barbara is a member of the Lemon Grove Soroptimists and joined the Friends this month.

Diane Fanning is a pro with her personal computer and word processor. She has a typing service (263-5638) but has volunteered her skills and her memory bank to the Friends, keeping our lists alphabetized and adding a professional look to our written output. Diane joined the Friends this year.

Dr. Amorita Treganza lives in Lemon Grove on the same property that her family has owned since 1900. She is a retired optometrist whose practice was here in Lemon Grove. She now divides her time between Lemon Grove and Mexico, living in both places.

Kiwanis Club of Lemon Grove is a renewing member; we are glad to welcome them back. They have been called on in the past when funding was needed for Friends' projects to help the library. The Kiwanis' name appears on a plaque in the library honoring donors of substantial amounts of money to the Friends' Adopt-a-Window project in which window-coverings were purchased for the library.

Norma Block and her husband bought their home in Lemon Grove in 1956 but already had family connections here dating back to World War II. Norma has been a library-user and booster for many years and is now a member of the Friends.

Ben and Tina Rainer, with daughter Kellee, are new members. Tina is co-owner of the Craft Depot, the library's neighbor within the Washington Square shopping center. Kellee, 16, is a junior at Mt. Miguel High School. Craft Depot's window displays often attract library patrons into a detour through the shop while heading toward the library.

OLD TIME DAYS BIG BOOK SALE MAY 7/8

We will have our usual outdoor booth at Lemon Grove's May 7-8 Old Time Days celebration. Our tables, tarps, signs, and boxes of books will be carried from the library to our fenced location at the front of the middle school.

Books are heavy and there will be many of them if we have all done our jobs of collecting used books from everyone we know. Moving books from the library into trucks for their ride to our booth at Old Time Days is heavy work. The Lemon Grove Firefighters, if they have not been called out, will unload boxes from trucks to our tables on Friday, May 8. We still need book-carriers and truck-packers for Friday morning, May 8, to get the books ready to move to the book sale by loading the trucks.

Beth Wilson's Boy Scout Troop 168 has volunteered to help on Saturday afternoon, May 8, and so have girls in Barbara Byrd's Girl Scout Troop 2177. They will help to pack up and will carry boxes to the waiting trucks and then from the trucks into storage at the library.

It is time to start collecting books. If you or your neighbors are donating something of special value or quite recent, something that should be priced higher than our usual 25 cents and 50 cents, it would be helpful if you'd attach a note to alert the pricers.

Carol Stanley, branch librarian, will be accepting boxes of donated books by April 1.

LIBRARY CLOSED 10 A.M. TO 12 NOON FRIDAY, MARCH 19

The library will be closed Friday morning, March 19, 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The children's section is receiving new bookshelves and installation and stocking is scheduled for Friday.

Friends of the Library are asked to donate whatever time they can spare to assist in the move. Just come to the library at 8:30 a.m. or after on March 19.

QUICK REVIEWS OF RECENT BOOKS

Reviewers are Dwight Putnam, Bob Vinson, Mary Vinson

"The Price of Victory" by Vincent S. Green

Military justice, a subject near and dear to my heart, in all its glory (or is it gory?) details. Mr. Green had five years of on-hand experience as a trial lawyer for the Army.

This is a quick reading but intensely fast-moving book with understandable situations. It doesn't require extensive thinking.

I enjoyed being absorbed intently in the developing, solving, and resultant facets; to me, this epitomizes "recreational reading." When the story ends, I want the results and NOT theorizing "what could have happened if ..."

As you may have decided by now, I thoroughly enjoyed the book and recommend that you check it out. In the high 9s on my score card is my evaluation. DP

"Dauntless" by Barrett Tillman

This is Mr. Tillman's tenth book. It puts you into the cockpit and into the air war over the Pacific in 1942. The young men who pilot the 2-seat, single-engine scout-bomber that is the Dauntless participate in all five battles that are fought by carriers.

There are predawn catapult launches, dogfights above flaming ships, and the camaraderie of men living on the edge.

In a preface to the book, Mr. Tillman writes, "Someday I might write a third book on the subject, and I will call it 'Dauntless: The Heartwarming Story of a Boy and his Dive-Bomber.' "

It is a fast-moving, historically accurate. I rate it an 8. BV

Journal of the Gun Years by Richard Matheson

. This Western novel/adventure is written in the style of 1876 and purports to be " ... CHOICE selections from the authentic, never-before-printed DIARY of the famous gunfighter-lawman CLAY HALSER! whose deeds of daring made his name a by-word of TERROR in the Southwest between the YEARS of 1866 and 1876."

This is a Western story with a difference-filled with action but with a depth of understanding of the events that move the hero, almost inevitably, toward his fate. 9.3 MV

Vengeance by Ian St. James

I had the feeling that it was work to read this novel of wealth, power and passion. Since work is a four-letter word in my vocabulary, I rather resented it and reluctantly "worked" through it.

The story involves high-level corporate dealings and international intrigue. The potential is present for our characters to act, react, suffer and celebrate. They do all this with both a pleasant and unpleasant background, but somehow the entire bottom line misses my satisfaction button.

A weak recommendation from this reviewer. Read it if it's all you have and don't feel up to going to the library and/or Crown. A solid 7.5 indicates my 0-10 evaluation. DP

Colony by Anne Rivers Siddons

The colony is a summer colony of well-to-do families who "summer" each year in their cottages on the coast of Maine. They live among but are not a part of the all-year residents. Their cocktail parties, yacht-club socials, and inbred snobbery keep them exclusive, their social circle intact.

Maude Chambliss remembers her life among this circle. At the close of the book, she is 90 and it is her granddaughter who will assume a woman's role in "the colony." The 70 summers of Maude's rich life as she experienced love and tragedy, happiness, sorrow, friendship, will keep your interest. It is gracefully written; one could imagine Ms. Siddons taking her place on the yacht club's terrace, understanding the social imperatives of the matrons ensconced there. 9.0 MV

The General's Daughter by Nelson DeMille

To label this novel, "a murder mystery" would be incorrect. Neither is it a "story of the military," nor is it a tale of "military justice." It happens to be a beautiful blending of all three, along with driving, emotional input.

While parts are a bit heavy for those of mild or squeamish tendencies, it can't help but be one of your best overall readings in a long time. A brutal murder on a military base develops into quite an entangling matter. Our hero is seemingly a hard-bitten, cynical, almost burnt-out intelligence agent who actually is a "lots of talk" softie, nice guy. I had a most difficult time being any assistance to my ever active project-pushing wife while this book remained unfinished.

Contact your friendly librarian ASAP to get on the list for this 9.5+ drama. DP

Foothills Art Association to hold annual juried art show in April

The Foothills Art Association, a non-profit group of local artists, will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday, April 1. The meeting will begin at 7:35 p.m. in the Ben Polack Fine Arts Center Theater, adjacent to the Foothills Art Association gallery, at 8053 University Ave., between Allison and Baltimore Dr. Refreshments will be served prior to the meeting.

After each meeting, the association has a demonstration artist. In April, the association's first vice president and program chairman, Robert Kelsch, will be the demonstrator. An illustrator and designer for 30 years, his training includes Art Center College of Design in Los Angeles and extensive study with Donald Putman and Sergi Bongart.

As an instructor at Midway Adult (Life Drawing - three years), Helix Adult (portrait and figure painting - three years), plus a lettering class for two years, as well as private painting and lettering classes, all a strong indication that Bob "loves to teach." He will do a still life in oil with heavy emphasis on design, color and value (a drawing will be held for Bob's work). Be sure to attend for an enjoyable evening.

The April gallery show will be the Annual April Juried Show. Members must have had work in the gallery three times during the period of April '92 through March '93. All work must be original and not have been shown in any other Foothills judged or juried show. The entry fee is $10 for either one or two entries. If selected, only one entry per artist may be displayed.

The awards will be: 1st place $100; 2nd place $75; 3rd place $50; Grumbacher Silver Medallion (no monetary award) and Honorable Mention at the discretion of the Juror, who will be Jan Colton, a highly qualified artist/juror.

Remember, it is a juried show, not a judged show, which means that not all entries will be accepted or hung. It is up to the juror. The show will run from Saturday, April 3, through Thursday, May 6. Each member may enter a single work for exhibit.

Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, closed Sunday and Monday.

Councilman Lake attends national conference

Councilman Craig Lake was in Washington, D.C. last week to attend the first major meeting for municipal government leaders to take stock of President Clinton's national economic program and to plan a strategy to make it work in America's cities and towns.

More than 3,000 local government officials took part in the National League of Cities' annual Congressional-City Conference, which took place as Congress was preparing to take up the president's initiatives.

President Clinton personally brought his blueprint for change to the meeting, and in a speech to the delegates on March 8 said the success of his plan depended upon everyone taking responsibility for building a stronger America.

NLC President Donald M. Fraser, mayor of Minneapolis, told the delegates that breaking the political gridlock in Washington and launching a rigorous and sustained effort to strengthen the nation;'s economic future required grassroots support as well as presidential leadership.

"The president's goals are our goals also, and we intend to make this plan for economic growth and deficit reduction succeed," Fraser said.

Other national policy leaders speaking at the meeting included Ron Brown, secretary of the Department of Commerce, Henry Cisneros, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban state Peace Officers Association and the state Alcohol Advisory Board, whereas the failed bill was endorsed by only three such organizations.

During the panel discussion, moderated by Channel 8 news anchor Susan Peters, audience questions focused not only on the proposed legislation but also on how the community and school districts could work to curb under-age drinking.

Drown and Zimmerman stressed that a community effort was needed to stop keg parties from ever getting off the ground.

"Prevention is the key; if you find a flyer which is announcing a keg party, you can send it to the police anonymously - if we know about a party ahead of time, then we can do something about stopping it," he said.

"Most of the prevention has to take place at home," said Drown. "Tough rules have to be made and curfews have to be established." Smith agreed that parent involvement was a necessity in discouraging under-age drinking.

"We need a very aggressive effort by the PTAs," she said, noting that the Grossmont Union Board had some of the strictest substance-abuse regulations in the state.

Horton agreed that parental involvement was paramount, though she admitted that achieving it was not easy. "I wish I knew the answer to getting parents involved," she said.

A toast to the Irish ... and the rest of you, too

by Bob Burns

It is wisely said that on March the 17th each year, there are two kinds of people in the world. There are those that are Irish and those who wish they were. It is the day dedicated to the patron and apostle of Ireland, Saint Patrick.

Patrick's family lived in a town named Bannavem Taburniae near Rome where he was born early in the 5th Century. His father was a local politician and Council member. At the age of 16, Patrick was captured and sold as a slave in Ireland. After six years he escaped and found his way back to his home. However his stay was short-lived and he was told in a dream that he was needed by the poor and suffering in place of his slavery. After some ecclesiastical studies he was made a Bishop of the Irish Mission and did return in 457 A.D. His fame is in that he returned to a totally pagan island and when he died in 492 it was wholly Christian. The so-called "snakes" that St. Patrick ran out of Ireland were probably more mythically the demons and pagan idols than the actual reptiles themselves, although I have never been aware that there are snakes there now.

All of this is just one more good excuse for the Irish to celebrate and have a good time. The toasts of John Jameson or Bushmills are made lavishly over great steaming bowls of corned beef and cabbage. I am told by my own relatives that the dish is more American than Gaelic with the beef being either bacon or mutton in actuality on the old sod. Like the traditional Irish wake, St. Patrick's Day is one for the wearing of the green and the parading, and the singing of Irish songs with much gusto. The singing of "Danny Boy" is a tradition. It was written about a father who is seeing his son off to war, and the admonition that he himself may well be dead upon the boys return. It is well-suited to the occasion.

Saint Patrick's Day is one that is celebrated with more ecumenical popularity than any other saint, and it is a nice coming together by all religious factions in my mind. In Lemon Grove, I am very pleased to be able to engorge myself with the corned beef and cabbage at many places. The Food Factory always has it on the menu, and the Senior Center has my reservation for their rendition of it. The Knights of Columbus always puts on a very toothsome St. Patricks Day dinner at their hall, and of course my Dutch wife will be fixing her special brand of the meal.

I hope everyone had a "Happy Saint Patrick's Day" and lots of fun. Every person should wear some green on that day, and if you are fortunate enough to be Irish, even a little bit, you may wear the button that says "Kiss me, I'm Irish."

Councilman Lake

Development, Federico Pena, secretary of the Department of Transportation, Robert Reich, secretary of the Department of Labor, Sen. Pete V. Domenici (R-N.M.) ranking Republican on the Senate Budget Committee, and Rep. Martin Sabo (D-Minn.) chairman of the House Budget Committee.

The conference included legislative workshops focusing on some of the major issues coming before Congress this year, and a day of policy meetings at which the NLC policy committees developed a work plan for the coming year.

According to Lake, the California contingent of city representatives met with Senator Diane Feinstein and her staff while in Washington to discuss how the government might assist cities.

From Where I Sit

A white monument

by Frank Andrews

Right after one of my hospital visits about a year ago, I became acquainted with Frankie, the nice therapist that the hospital sent out to our house for further outpatient treatment. She was so thorough and proficient in her work that her treatments not only helped relieve some of my pain but also helped my outlook on life.

We discussed our religions. I said that my wife and I were active in the Baptist Church. She answered enthusiastically, "My family and I are deeply involved in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

She told us of their new temple that was being built off Highway 5 in the hills of La Jolla. She offered us a free tour of the place when it was completed about a year from then.

We got a call a couple of weeks ago from Frankie that our sight-seeing tour was all arranged, and that she would pick us up on Wednesday at a certain time. When the day arrived, so did our good friend, Frankie to take us through the temple. When we arrived, the temple area was swarming with sightseers, but under the full control of parking lot attendants and ushers.

We filed through the temple in systematic order. From the breath-taking grandeur of the exterior, we expected a huge sanctuary with vaulted ceilings on the inside but instead the entire building is a complex of many smaller sanctuaries, each with a specific purpose.

The baptistry is resting on statues of 12 oxen. Also spectacular is the huge, glass-enclosed atrium filled with beautiful, colorful flowers - a celestial room which brings the outdoors indoors - and several other rooms of equal glory. The gigantic, main spiral staircase has been constructed to give the illusion of being freestanding. The entire project has been built with fine craftmanship and materials.

All the current tourists of this "open house" are fitted with cloth booties to protect the unique and luscious new carpet. The very courteous attendant wheeled me into the foyer where two little boys, dressed up in black ties and white shirts, proceeded to wash the wheels of my wheelchair, also to protect the carpeting. One of these boys looked up at me and said, "Sir, can we check your oil and tires?"

Thanks to my loving and caring therapist, Frankie, I was blessed by visiting this most magnificent pure-white monument that is a tribute to our Lord, Jesus Christ.
